"If they're Rich's shoes they're proper." Ten-one F-Cor. 10th.

Entire Building. Phone, Main one-Fifty.

The number of orders for footwear received by us from Americans traveling abroad serves to emphasize the fact that foreign-made shoes do not possess those distinctive features designed to meet the requirements of Americans.

Before crossing the water purchase the necessary footwear for the trip. Our dis-play of new and exclusive styles embraces all of the approved designs essential to proper fashion and comfort.

We invite the attention of ladies and gentlemen preparing for commencement and graduation exercises to the handsomest line of footwear suitable for such occasions ever shown in Washington. Our display is extensive and comprises the very latest productions in correct styles.

Exclusiveness and propriety are observable in every class of footwear shown at our store.

Canvas and linen shoes will be worn more extensively this summer than ever before. Our showing in this line is very extensive and comprises the best of all the latest creations.

Our assortment of footwear for children's May balls comprises all of the latest and most recent effects.

For May and June weddings we can make the trousseaux complete with all the desirable footwear. For receptions, dinners and all dress occasions we have all of the approved styles in patent leather and the newest tints in kid and satin slip-

THE SOCIAL WORLD

Notable Gathering at the Lieber-Norris Wedding.

CEREMONY FOLLOWED BY RECEPTION

Departures for Suburban and Summer Homes.

PERSONAL NOTES

A large concourse of friends witnessed the marriage today at St. Paul's Church, 23d street, of Miss Genevra Norris, daughter of Mrs. Thaddeus Norris, to Mr. William Alexander Lieber, son of Gen. and Mrs. Lieber. The ceremony, performed by Rev. Dr. Harding, took place at 1 o'clock, and was followed by a breakfast at the residence of Mrs. Norris on N street, attended by the personal friends of the contracting parties. The church and residence were both adorned in green and white, lilies, orange and other white blossoms, making a most beautiful arrangement. When the bride and her attendants arrived the ushers, Mr. John Kenton Eisenarrived the ushers, Mr. John Kenton Eisenbrey, Dr. Richard Woods and Mr. Mifflin Huey of Philadelphia, Mr. John Siebert, Mr. Morven Thompson and Dr. Claytor, preceded them to the chancel. Miss Amy Lieber was maid of honor and Miss Louise Lieber, another sister of the groom, Miss Murphy of San Francisco, Miss Hilda Shapley, Miss Fannie Baird, Miss Elizabeth Stovell of Philadelphia and Miss Marie Leech of this city were bridesmaids. Mr. James S. McCord of Philadelphia was best man. Mr. Richard Norris of Philadelphia escorted the attractive young bride, who is his niece. Her wedding dress was a superb combination of real lace and Duchesse satin. Her tulle veil and wreath of orange blossoms were held by a diamond fleur-de-lis brooch, was also worn. Miss Lieber was in pink, her dress of a thin Philippine fabric, made over pink silk. An ecru straw picture hat, with a pink plume and a bouquet of bridesmaid roses, finished a highly becoming toilette for its handsome wearer. The bridesmaids were in white mousseline de soie dresses, with pink girdles, and large white hats trimmed with pink roses. Their bouquets were also of brey, Dr. Richard Woods and Mr. Mifflin pink roses. Their bouquets were also of

WIFE OF SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY EXPIRED LAST NIGHT.

DEATH OF MRS. GAGE

Had Been III for Many Weeks - Was Quite a Favorite in Official and Social Circles.

Mrs. Cornelia Lansing Gage, wife of the Secretary of the Treasury, died at her home, on Massachusetts avenue, last night at 9:30 o'clock, after an illness of nine weeks. With her, when the end came, were her husband, her daughter, Mrs. E. F. Pierce of Evanston, Ill., and Dr. W. W. Jehnston, the attending physician. For a time before her death Mrs. Gage suffered considerable pain, but she maintained her bright and cheerful demeanor, and was result of grip complications, was the immediate cause of death. Mrs. Gage was exposed to the inclement weather for about an hour on inauguration day, but at the time her health did not seem to have been affected. On the 11th of March she left for Evanston to visit her married daughter. While there she had a chill and took to her bed, but soon recovered sufficiently to return to Washington, where she had been confined to her room ever since.

Born in Albany.

Mrs. Lyman J. Gage was born in Albany fifty-eight years ago, and her maiden name was Cornelia Lansing. She was first married to Lloyd G. Gage, a brother of the Secretary of the Treasury, who was not in strong health when their wedding took place. He died a few years afterward, leaving a daughter, now Mrs. L. F. Pierce of Chicago. Her marriage to Secretary Gage took place in 1887 at Denver, Col., he then being a widower. After a wedding tour they resided in Chicago until coming to Washington.

Adapted for Social Demands.

Mrs. Gage was well adapted for the social demands of public life. She was fond of entertaining and accustomed to large companies. Her house here was rarely without guests, the holiday season being particularly a bright and happy one by the custom of family reunions and constant entertaining. In Chicago she was country. The President, at San Francisco, fond of dinner giving, and continued it here, both in and out of the winter season. She was exceedingly gracious and pleasant in manner, and possessed of wide telegraphed as follows:

"Your message brings us inexpressible sorrow. You have our deep sympathy in this great affliction."

Finally, General Harries called for attention, and in a brief address extended a cordial welcome to those in whose honor the reception was given. General Harries referred to the record of the District regiment and added that the District of Co-lumbia had sent forth more than 500 men to engage in the Philippine service, a record that surpassed that of any other community in the country. Commissioner Macfarland responded to an invitation to speak. He declared that the District National Guard has his deep interest and earnest support, and went on to say that he believed that those citizens of the com-munity who take an interest in anything fully appreciate the value of the local organized militia.
